Why are aliens interested in Earth?

By Mark Bennett

The Master
Aetherius is not only from another planet - but also from another plane of existence.

I would guess that most readers of Phenomena Magazine believe in the existence of alien life. And not only that – but also believe that there are aliens visiting Earth. The question is not “Are they here?”, but “Why are they interested in us?”

This is a massive question – more the subject of a book than an article. We are talking about the motivation and psychology of countless races in this galaxy and beyond. We would also need to examine the history of these races – and of their interaction with each other – in order to really understand why extraterrestrial beings show interest in our backward little world.

In this article I will look at an extract of a message given to Earth by an extraterrestrial being that begins to answer this question. The communicator is known by the pseudonym of “Aetherius”, sometimes called “The Master Aetherius”, in deference to his spiritual stature and vast scientific knowledge.

The Master Aetherius is not only from another planet – but also from another plane of existence. This is a different frequency of vibration – sometimes referred to as a different realm, or dimension. Planets have various frequencies which could be home to completely different environmental conditions. The Master Aetherius is from the planet Venus – but from a plane of Venus which is completely different from the physical plane of Venus known to Earth scientists.

This message was channeled through Yoga Master Dr. George King on January 29th, 1955, while he was in a self-precipitated positive Samadhi trance. The words of The Master Aetherius will appear in inverted commas and in bold.

“We are interested in your world, because you have been marked down as a young planet in the planetary system, a grey planet in the system, and indeed, you are the only planet that is not properly represented in the Interplanetary Parliament, the seat of which is on Saturn.”

Unfortunately, we are by far the most backward planet in the Solar System. The cultures of our planetary neighbours are vastly superior – scientifically and spiritually. They do not fight wars with one another, they do not have rich and poor, they do not have disease – or even old age. They have advanced psychic powers, which to us would seem miraculous. They are free to explore the galaxy and beyond – and, as they do so, they work tirelessly to help other less evolved races, such as us.

This being the case, “Interplanetary Parliament” is a vastly different institution than any parliament on this planet. In fact, the word “parliament” is only used because there is no equivalent of their political system, or even anything like it, in any country on Earth.

The planet Saturn is the most advanced planet in the Solar System. Again, like with Venus – the inhabitants of the planet do not live on the same physical plane as us – but on a plane which vibrates at a much higher frequency.

Naturally the Saturnians do not rule by force. In fact, they do not rule at all – at least, not in any sense that we might be familiar with.

Since they are the most advanced planetary beings in the System, the inhabitants of other planets are eager for their leadership. They want to follow the advice of the Saturnians in every possible respect, to the very best of their ability. Why? Because they know that this will bring about the best possible result for their respective planets.

The Saturnians do not in any way seek power over any other planet – they simply offer their wisdom, and their help, in any way they possibly can, even if it means at times sacrificing their own spiritual evolution to do so.

“You see, when once you get outside the surface chaos of your foolish political systems and think about travelling to your solar planets, you enter a field or an area of comparative harmony. Certainly harmony if you were to compare it with your worldly chaos.”

The Cosmic Masters are not rude – but they are direct. They do not mince their words to flatter us or placate us. Our world, as far as they are concerned is in chaos.

You may be lucky enough to live in a fairly peaceful, well-to-do area, perhaps in a quiet leafy suburb of a rich country. But this is not the norm. You only have to watch the news to see what a mess most of the world is in, one way or another. And even if you are one of the lucky ones – it doesn’t mean that your country’s political system is working as it should – it just means it is working for you.

The Master Aetherius describes our political systems as “foolish” – which is entirely logical, since they lead to chaos. These days many people would be inclined to agree with this. But things were very different in 1955. People believed in politics and political ideology – and even in politicians – in a way that is strange to many of us today. This disillusionment is, for the most part, a significant step forward in human development.

What is “foolish” about our political systems?

Frankly, I hardly know where to begin!

But there is one thing that stands out.

There is little or no spirituality in terrestrial politics. There may be a little bit of lip service to the religion of the country in question. There may even be violent fanaticism. But neither lip service nor fanaticism are true spirituality. They are nothing more than hypocrisy.

Materialism is not enough to make a nation – much less a planet – really prosper. Success is more than money, and certainly more than military might. For a country to be really successful, the people of that country would have to make the effort to develop their own spiritual awareness – and thereby act in a very different way from the way most people on Earth act at the moment. It is not enough for each person to just look after themselves and those closest to them. We all have a responsibility to the world as a whole.

I appreciate that this may all sound well and good – but how is it actually to be brought about? This is a big question – perhaps the subject of a future article. But I would say one thing – that this is not just a problem for politicians to solve. It is a problem for all of us to solve.

“Now that harmony has taken many trillions of years to fabricate, and it would not be in the best interests to encourage one who is liable to upset that harmony to enter into the area where that harmony exists.”

The Master Aetherius and his cosmic brethren live in harmony. This is harmony of all kinds. They are in harmony with one another, with nature, even with the planets they live on – which they correctly recognize as highly advanced living beings. Even their bodies are in a state of harmony; they do not get sick or deteriorate with age. This is because the Cosmic Masters have complete mental control over every aspect of their physical structures.

It is very interesting that we are told that this has taken “many trillions of years” to fabricate. What exactly this means – we do not know.

Could it mean that the civilizations on other planets are literally trillions of years ahead of us?

Such a thought is almost terrifying – and yet, in another way, incredibly inspiring.

We know from other communications that certain civilizations are at least millions of years ahead of us. Whether it’s millions, billions or trillions – such figures defy our conception of time.

But, nevertheless, it is worth marveling at, and contemplating on, the vast gulf between us and them – and daring to try to imagine what such an advanced civilization might be like.

Such contemplation is not just an idle pursuit of curiosity – but will raise our consciousness as we mentally reach upwards to the higher planes. Answers to questions about life on other planets lie waiting in the ethers – available to anyone who makes enough effort to find them, and then mentally digest them.

If we were to join Interplanetary Parliament now we would be “liable to upset that harmony” that they have created over these trillions of years. Naturally, they could easily protect themselves from such upset, but it would nevertheless be bad karmically for us to act in such a way as to potentially be the cause of upset to something so highly evolved. I cringe to think what our current political leaders might say if they had an open dialogue with representatives of Interplanetary Parliament – the mind boggles!

“So we are offering the hand of friendship because we wish to advise you so that your scientists may prepare themselves, your politicians may prepare themselves and your religious leaders may prepare themselves for journeys to the planets, and your consciousness will be broadened greatly by such a journey. The whole consciousness of your world will be risen when man can return with so-called factual reports of the conditions now existing on other planets. He will see how wrong their academic scientists were when they said that such and such a planet is not capable of holding a life form which is anything near to the human. There are many life forms in the planets more human, if I may use the term in the broadest sense, than most of the people in your world.”

But, despite our current backwardness, the Cosmic Masters have not given up on us. On the contrary they are “offering the hand of friendship” – which is incredibly gracious considering the colossal difference between them and us. After all, not many powerful civilizations on Earth have offered the hand of friendship when encountering technologically less advanced peoples, have they?!

But, this again is the difference – the Cosmic Masters in this Solar System are simply not like us.

They are better....much better.

They want to advise us so that our scientists, politicians and religious leaders can prepare themselves for journeys to other planets. This means rather more than meets the eye. The Cosmic Masters are good, but not naïve. I don't really think that The Master Aetherius seriously imagined that the leaders of China, the Soviet Union, the UK or America, or indeed any other country, or the Pope, or any other religious leader in 1955, would actually advance sufficiently to be ready for travel to the higher planes of other planets.

I think what this really means is that the whole world needs to advance such that – unlike now – we would choose, and support, political and religious leaders, who were already on the right track – and in fact much more spiritually advanced than the average person. And that our science would have evolved above basic materialism – to a subtler plane. In such a world, there would certainly be no war, and indeed be very little disharmony – so we would not be liable to upset the harmony that is enjoyed on other planets.

Knowing the truth about life on other planets is not just dry theoretical knowledge. It raises consciousness. Experiencing life on another planet would do this even more – perhaps to an unimaginable degree. Those with this experience can then share it with others – and spread this inspiration to all...!
